

Meet author Clarence Thomas and hear the story behind his new anthology 'Mobilizing in Our Own Name: Million Worker March'

Labor's independent voice is more important now than ever

Clarence Thomas is a co-founder of the Million Worker March, held October 2004, at the Lincoln Memorial.

A labor and community activist, Thomas has championed the struggles of African Americans, the oppressed, and the working class at home and abroad.

He is:

- A third-generation longshore worker,
- A retired past secretary-treasurer of International Longshore & Warehouse Union (ILWU) Local 10 in San Francisco, and
- A recipient of the C.L.Dellums CBTU Award.
